COSTA CALIDA

EXPLORE THE

COSTA CALIDA

Located in the south-east of Spain's Mediterranean coast, the Costa Calida is a region lined with miles and miles of fine sandy beaches, some of them backed by dunes and pine trees.

The port city of Cartagena boasts a wealth of monuments, museums and architectural treasures from the past. For more than 2,000 years, it was one of the Mediterranean's great fortified ports. The region's fairly flat terrain makes it perfect for lovely walks. Water sports are not forgotten either, with diving schools that also give you the chance to try surfing, sailing or canoeing.

The Salinas de San Pedro del Pinatar regional park, to the north of the Mar Menor, is a protected nature area of more than 800 hectares where wildlife and plants flourish. Its beaches and sea waters are simply impeccable. The area is also famous for its mud baths and their beneficial effects. Thanks to its incredibly fertile plains, the region produces a wealth of fruit and vegetables, which form the basic ingredients of Costa Calida cuisine. It also offers an abundant variety of seafood from the Mar Menor and the Mediterranean, not forgetting the meat from the surrounding mountains. With more than 300 days of sunshine a year and a mild Mediterranean climate, the region is a pleasant place to live all year round, with an average annual temperature of 18°C.

COSTA DEL SOL

EXPLORE THE

COSTA DEL SOL

This region truly lives up to its name, thanks to its Mediterranean climate. The sun shines here around 320 days a year and rain is rare.

From Nerja to Sotogrande, by way of Málaga and Estepona, the Costa del Sol offers a whole host of activities, each one as appealing as the next, thanks to its water parks, theme parks, water sports, zoos and museums. But that is not all! The Costa del Sol also boasts a wide choice of beaches, secluded coves and charming little marinas.

Regarded as the Spanish Saint-Tropez, Marbella is Spanish luxury personified. You will fall for its narrow, flower-filled streets and its grand squares, as well as its long beaches and the famous Puerto Banus. Tourism on the Costa del Sol has given rise to many restaurants and marinas, as well as a great many golf courses, which have earned the region its nickname, the “Costa del Golf”.

Located in Andalusia, the Costa del Sol is packed with cultural treasures. Seville, Granada, Ronda and Córdoba are all well worth a visit. Charming, picturesque villages, nature parks as far as the eye can see, ski slopes in the Sierra Nevada, rolling hills sweeping down to the sea: the Costa del Sol offers you the very best of authentic Spain.
